

All People are Friends Through Christ

Introit for the Fourth Sunday of Lent

Text paraphrased from 2 Corinthians 5

Jeremy Rawson

Composed in the style of a Lutheran chorale

Steady, but flowing  $\text{♩} = 70$

Soprano
No long-er do we judge as peo - ple judge, Though Christ was once judged

Alto
No long-er do we judge as peo - ple judge, Though Christ was once judged

Tenor (optional)
8 No long-er do we judge as peo - ple judge, Though Christ was once judged

Bass
No long-er do we judge as peo - ple judge, Though Christ was once judged

*Organ/
Piano

by hu - man law. One who is joined to Christ is made a -

by hu - man law. One who is joined to Christ is made a -

8 by hu - man law. One who is joined to Christ is made a -

by hu - man law. One who is joined to Christ is made a -

*This introit can be unaccompanied, unless one of the voice parts is missing

new; The old is gone, the new has come.

new; The old is gone, the new has come.

8 new; The old is gone, the new has come.

new; The old is gone, the new has come.

All this is done by God, All this is done by God Who

All this is done by God, All this is done by God Who

8 All this is done by God, All this is done by God Who

All this is done by God, All this is done by God Who through Christ, turned us, turned from en-em-ies in - to friends, All peo - ple are through Christ, turned us, turned from en-em-ies in - to friends, All peo - ple are through Christ, turned us, turned from en-em-ies in - to friends, All peo - ple are

through Christ, turned us, turned from en-em-ies in - to friends, All peo - ple are friends through Christ, All peo - ple are friends through Christ.

friends through Christ, All peo - ple are friends through Christ.

friends through Christ, All peo - ple are friends through Christ.

friends through Christ, Al peo - ple are friends through Christ.